THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS REVISITED NEW SERIES

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS RE-VISITED VOLUME 12 -- RADIO HAURAKI NEW

With radio in New Zealand controlled by the state, a group of young people decided to follow the example of offshore radio in Europe, to break the state broadcasting monopoly. There were many highs and lows in the story, including the loss of their first ship in a storm, and the sad loss of one of their deejays in the final days. However, they eventually achieved their goal to obtain a land-based broadcasting licence.

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS RE-VISITED VOLUME 11 -- RADIO ENGLAND NEW

After being involved with setting up the successful Radio London Don Pierson decided to start not one, but two radio stations from a ship. Top 40 pop station Swinging Radio England, and Easy listening Britain Radio were the result. They were not as successful as hoped, and Radio England was replaced by Dutch language Radio Dolfijn, which then became Radio 227, while Britain became Radio 355.

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS RE-VISITED VOLUME 10 -- RADIO 270 NEW

Scarborough businessman Don Robinson, decided that Yorkshire needed its own radio station, and found a willing partner in Wilf Proudfoot, who wanted to promote his chain of supermarkets. A suitable ship was found, and after a few false starts, Radio 270 made it onto the offshore airwaves in June 1966. This documentary contains much previously unseen rare colour footage of life aboard Radio 270, as well as interview clips, air-checks, and other audio visual material.

Bluray: £31.50 (Subscribers: £27.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS RE-VISITED VOLUME 9 -- RADIO SCOTLAND NEW

Tommy Shields dream was to have a radio station solely for Scotland. He achieved that when Radio Scotland came on the air on New Year's day 1966. The station was a great success, but problems with reception meant the radio ship had to move from one side of Scotland to the other, and when the ship was found to be within UK territorial waters, it had to move back again. The dream was achieved, but at great cost, and Radio Scotland closed with heavy losses.

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS RE-VISITED VOLUME 7 - RADIO INVICTA-KING-390/RADIO ESSEX/BBMS-RADIO TOWER

Fort based Radio 390 played music from the wartime era and ballad singers from the 50's. On Sunk Head fort, Radio Tower, had big plans to launch a TV station. Tower Television never got off the ground, and Radio Tower itself struggled. Radio Essex was perhaps the first 24 hour music station. After it closed, owner Roy Bates moved to another fort, which was well outside British territorial waters, and set up the Principality of Sealand.

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS - Original Series

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 20 -
THE COMMUNICATOR/NANNELL/ARUTZ 2000
The Communicator was home to Laser 558 & Laser Hot Hits. Following their demise, the ship moved to Portugal for re-fitting, and a planned return to Europe. The Nannell was to have housed Stereo Hits 576, broadcasting in AM stereo in a major marketing deal for Japanese AM stereo radio sets. Arutz 2000 started with a derelict lightship in a Portsmouth scrapyard, then towed to a position off the Israeli coast, where it began broadcasting religious programmes.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 19 - RADIO MONIQUE RADIO558/819

The story of the Dutch stations operating from the Ross Revenge. The popular Radio Monique, Radio 819 and Radio 558. Their popularity wasn't shared by the Dutch authorities, who were soon planning to get them off the air, culminating in a raid in August 1989.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 18 - LASER HOT HITS

Laser 558's radio ship was purchased at auction after it had been forced off the air by the British authorities. Laser Hot Hits suffered a series of mast collapses and being off air led to a loss of advertising revenue. The MV Communicator ended up back in the UK port of Harwich, just a year after she was previously there.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 17 - LASER 558

Starting as Laser 730 with an unsuccessful balloon antenna, the station then, with a conventional antenna system became Laser 558, and an almost overnight success as "all Music radio" hit the European airwaves. The UK commercial radio stations were outraged, as was the government who eventually forced Laser 558 off the air – but not before Laser had forced change in UK radio.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 16 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 80s PART 4

Things were just looking brighter for Caroline, when along came the unexpected – a raid by the Dutch and British authorities. This episode covers the raid and its after effects, the final offshore broadcast and the search for a 3rd world licence. This DVD concludes Caroline free radio years with the Ross Revenge taken into Dover and the control of the British authorities.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 15 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 80s PART 3

Following storms in 1987, Caroline's 300 foot antenna mast was weakened and came crashing down. With her usual tenacity, Caroline was soon back on air with a temporary mast, and a long period of mast building began. Easter 1989 saw Radio Caroline celebrate her 25th birthday. The British and Dutch authorities didn't join the celebrations, as they were planning much darker deeds.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 14 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 80s PART 2

Caroline being joined by Laser 558, led to an offshore radio revival, that quickly captured a huge audience. UK commercial radio was losing listeners and pressured the government to take action, leading to Laser being forced off the air. The next move by the UK, was to extend their territorial waters from 3 miles to 12 miles, meaning that Caroline's ship had to move further out to sea, to a less sheltered position.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 13 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 80s PART 1

When Caroline's ship Mi Amigo sank in March 1980, many people thought it was the end of the station. But before long a new ship had been purchased and was being fitted out in Spain. Radio Caroline's new ship started broadcasting in August 1983, and her return was worldwide news.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 12 - RADIO PARADIJS - GODDESS OF DEMOCACY - ODELIA and RADIO BROD

Looking at some of the short lived offshore stations, as well as some that never made it. The Dutch Radio Paradijs from the Magda Maria, the much publicised radio ship for China Goddess of Democracy, from the Mediterranean Odelia TV and the EU funded Radio Brod, that broadcast during the Yugoslavia conflict.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 11 - THE VOICE OF PEACE

Peace campaigner Abie Nathan, had the idea of setting up a radio station to bring peace to the Middle East. The Voice of Peace broadcast for just over twenty years from "somewhere in the Mediterranean". When an historic peace accord was signed between Palestine and Israel, Abie Nathan felt that he had at last achieved his aims, and closed the Voice of Peace, scuppering the former radio ship.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 10 - RADIO MI AMIGO RETURNS - RADIO DELMARE

Belgian Businessman Sylvain Tack saw that having his own radio station, would be an ideal way of promoting his products. After renting time from Radio Caroline, Mi Amigo decided to purchase their own ship, but less than three months later it ran aground during storms. Radio Delmare didn't have the financial backing, but did have its share of technical problems, losing its first ship during storms. Another ship was found and the station returned, but after a mutiny by the crew, the ship was taken into port and impounded.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 9 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 70s Part 2.

Following the Dutch MOA in 1974, Caroline moved back to the English coast. When the radio ship drifted into UK waters, she was boarded by officials, and taken off the air. She was soon back and defiantly fought the law through the 1970's, but in the end it was Mother Nature that finished the Mi Amigo. In March 1980, Nature did what the government couldn't, and the Mi Amigo finally sank.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 8 - RADIO CAROLINE - THE 70s Part 1.

Few people expected Radio Caroline to return in 1972. The Mi Amigo was a vandalised, stripped, rusting wreck in a Dutch dock. Thanks to some enthusiasts and subterfuge, Caroline was back broadcasting off the Dutch coast. Radio Seagull Loving Awareness, and much else followed before the Dutch MOA forced the Mi Amigo to return to off the English coast.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 7 - RADIO FREE AMERICA - CAPITAL RADIO - RADIO ATLANTIS

When the Reverend Carl McIntire's radio stations were closed down by the American authorities, he took to the sea with Radio Free America. Capital Radio saw itself above other offshore stations, and promoting itself with the slogan that broadcasting is a profession for Gentlemen. Radio Atlantis at first hired airtime from Caroline, but soon purchased her own ship. The deejays and jingles, managed to bring the spirit and fun to offshore radio.

DVD: £26.50 (subscribers: £22.99)

2 - Offshore Echos

THE OFFSHORE RADIO YEARS VOLUME 6 - THE RADIO NORTHEAST STORY

The story of RNI was as colourful as their multi-coloured radio ship. Among the more dramatic events were a fire bomb attack, an attempted hijacking and being jammed by the British government. As well as the drama, RNI was unique in that it was responsible for introducing Dutch and other European bands to an international audience. English OR French Version available

SPECIAL CD / DVD SETS

ATLANTIS HERE, THERE, ON THE AIR, EVERYWHERE

Radio Atlantis began by hiring airmail from Radio Caroline, and later acquired her own ship the Jeannine. Whilst only on the air for just over a year, Atlantis is fondly remembered, for its clever use of production and jingles. The English service in particular, re-created some of the fun and excitement of the British 60's offshore stations. Over 3 CD's and a DVD, this set features highlights and jingles from Radio Atlantis.

£33.99 (subs: £30.99)

LASER ALL EUROPE RADIO

Laser 558's arrival led to a revival of interest in offshore radio in the mid-1980's. Shops, cafés, building sites and car radios were all tuned to Laser in London and the south of England. Action by the UK government eventually forced Laser 558 off the air. A return as Laser Hot Hits, suffered a series of mast collapses, with loss of advertising revenue, and the end of Laser. This 3 MP3 CD sets highlights Laser 558 & Laser Hot Hits and includes a bonus DVD with the Laser 558 promo video.

£33.99 (subs: £30.99)

SMOOTH SAILING - The Highly Successful Sound of WONDERFUL RADIO LONDON

Using a proven American Top 40 format adapted for a British audience, Radio London was the most successful of the 1960's offshore stations, with both audience and in financial return for its investors. This 3 CD set highlights Big L and includes bonus DVD with the Radio London film.

£33.99 (subs: £30.99)

RNI - THE SOUND OF YOUNG EUROPE

Radio Northsea International had more than it's fair share of drama, being jammed by the British government, a firebomb attack and an attempted hijacking. The station, with it's multi coloured radioship was also influential in introducing Dutch bands to a wider European audience. This CD set of highlights and jingles, includes a bonus DVD with the RNI film - The Show must go on.
